

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A golf club head of the invention includes a head body formed by a hollow member, and a face member for forming a face.

The face in which a thick-walled portion and a thin-walled portion

5 are formed by forging a metal plate subjected to rolling.

FOOT-EST-660